

What to do with all your stuff ... and keep it out of the landfill!

Nationwide Groups

www.earth911.com

This is a fantastic site that will tell you what and where you can recycle just about anything. A recycling location clearinghouse with information about what materials are being recycled and how the new material is used.

www.freecycle.org

A grassroots and nonprofit movement of people who are giving (& getting) stuff for free in their towns. It's about reuse and keeping good stuff out of landfills. Membership is free.

www.localharvest.org

The best food is grown closest to you. Use the website to find farmers' markets, family farms, and other sources of sustainably grown food in your area, where you can buy produce, grass-fed meats, and many other goodies

www.craigslist.org

This is a clearinghouse of all sorts of things. Post items as well as purchase from others in your area.

St. Louis Area Information

www.stlouisgreen.com

Provides a listing of the green events, businesses, and job offerings in St. Louis Area

www.sltrc.com

St. Louis Teachers' Recycle Center, Inc accepts a wide variety of materials including plastic food containers, foam core, children's books, trophies, and a lot more www.home-eco.com

Offers sustainable, renewable and recycled goods

www.sappingtonfarmersmkt.com

Local market owned and managed by a co-op of local Missouri farmers

www.thehealthyplanet.com

Guide to Locally Grown Food in the St. Louis Metro Area

<http://stlouis.missouri.org/citygov/recycle/>

St. Louis City website with its 26 drop-off sites. Above and beyond recycling, you can reduce, reuse, and buy recycled. These pages to learn more.

http://www.co.st-louis.mo.us/doh/waste/waste_mg.html

St. Louis County Recycling program

www.scchealth.org

St. Charles County Waste and Recycling

www.resourcestlouis.org

ReSource St. Louis reclaims and sells construction and renovation materials www.habitatstl.org/restore

Habitat for Humanity's ReStore accepts donations of construction and renovation materials and makes them available to the public for resale

www.ecyclemo.org

E-Cycle Missouri directs you to where and how you can recycle electronics in Missouri

www.witsinc.org

WITS is Missouri's largest Non-Profit Recycler of computer equipment. Located in St Louis and is certified by the state as a designated site for truly recycling materials.

www.replenishingtheearth.com

Replenishing the Earth provides a 'cradle to cradle' approach to managing waste. They work with construction, food service, schools and other institutions on education and action

Remains, Inc

Used clothing recycler in South St. Louis. Process used textiles, paired shoes, purse, belt and toys. Items are either reused or recycled. 3340 Morgan Ford Road (314) 865-0303

